

Legality Inc.

New Headquarters considerations

Executive Summary

The decision of moving our legal firm's head quarters to a new province is important for this firm as it can determine the course of the organizations growth over the next couple of years. It is therefore import to carefully consider several factors relating to the business and the staff before taking a decision.

Factors to Consider

Here are some factors:

Population

Available Educators

Health Care

Business Viability based on GDP

Cost of living (Rent)

Tax

Standard of Living

Recommendations

Here are the top three recommended provinces to consider in order of recommendation:

1. Quebec

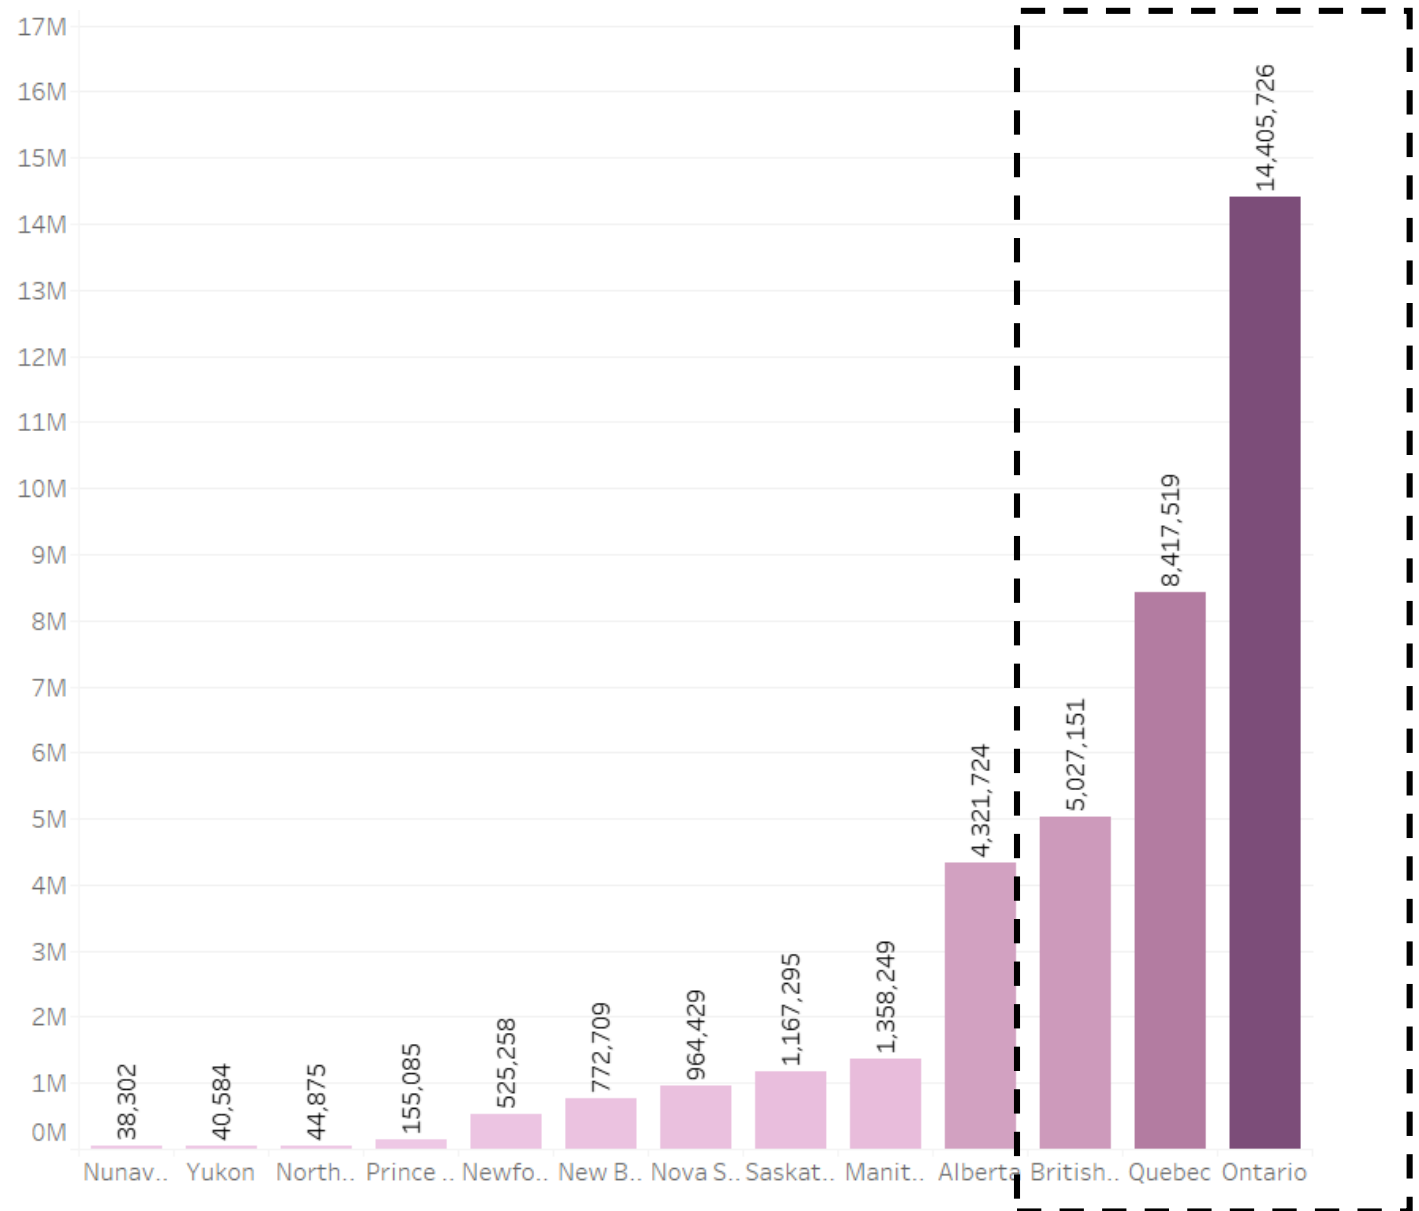

2. British Columbia

3. Ontario

Population

More population implies market opportunity and the top three markets are:

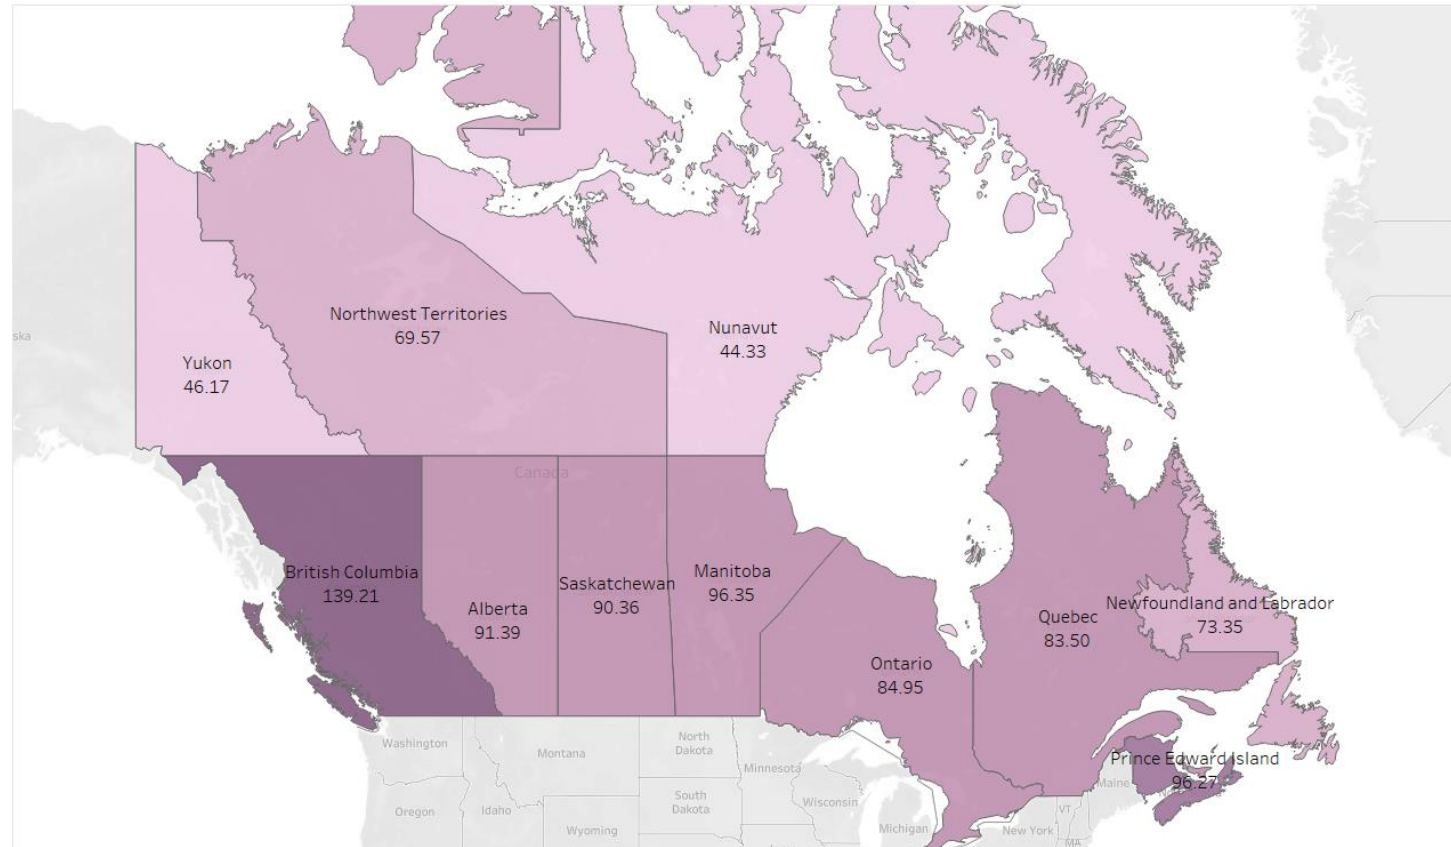

1. Ontario
2. Quebec
3. British Columbia

Education

Considering the total number of available educators to population in each province, here are the top:

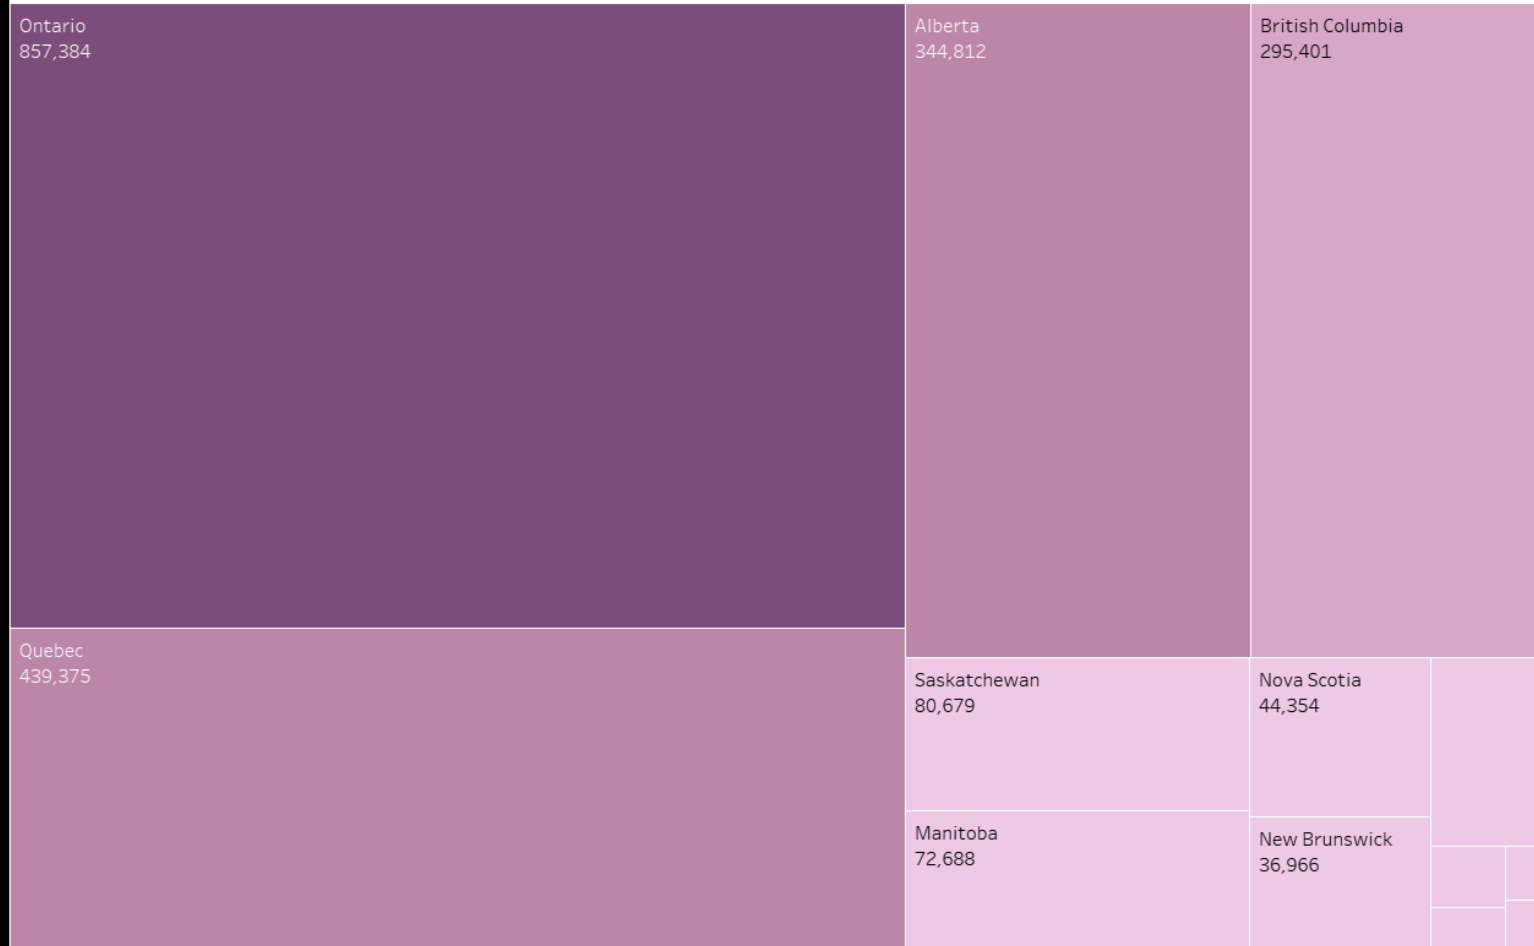

1. British Columbia
2. Prince Edwards Island
3. Manitoba

GDP

The Gross Domestic Product represents the number of economic activities in each province and here are the top GDPs:

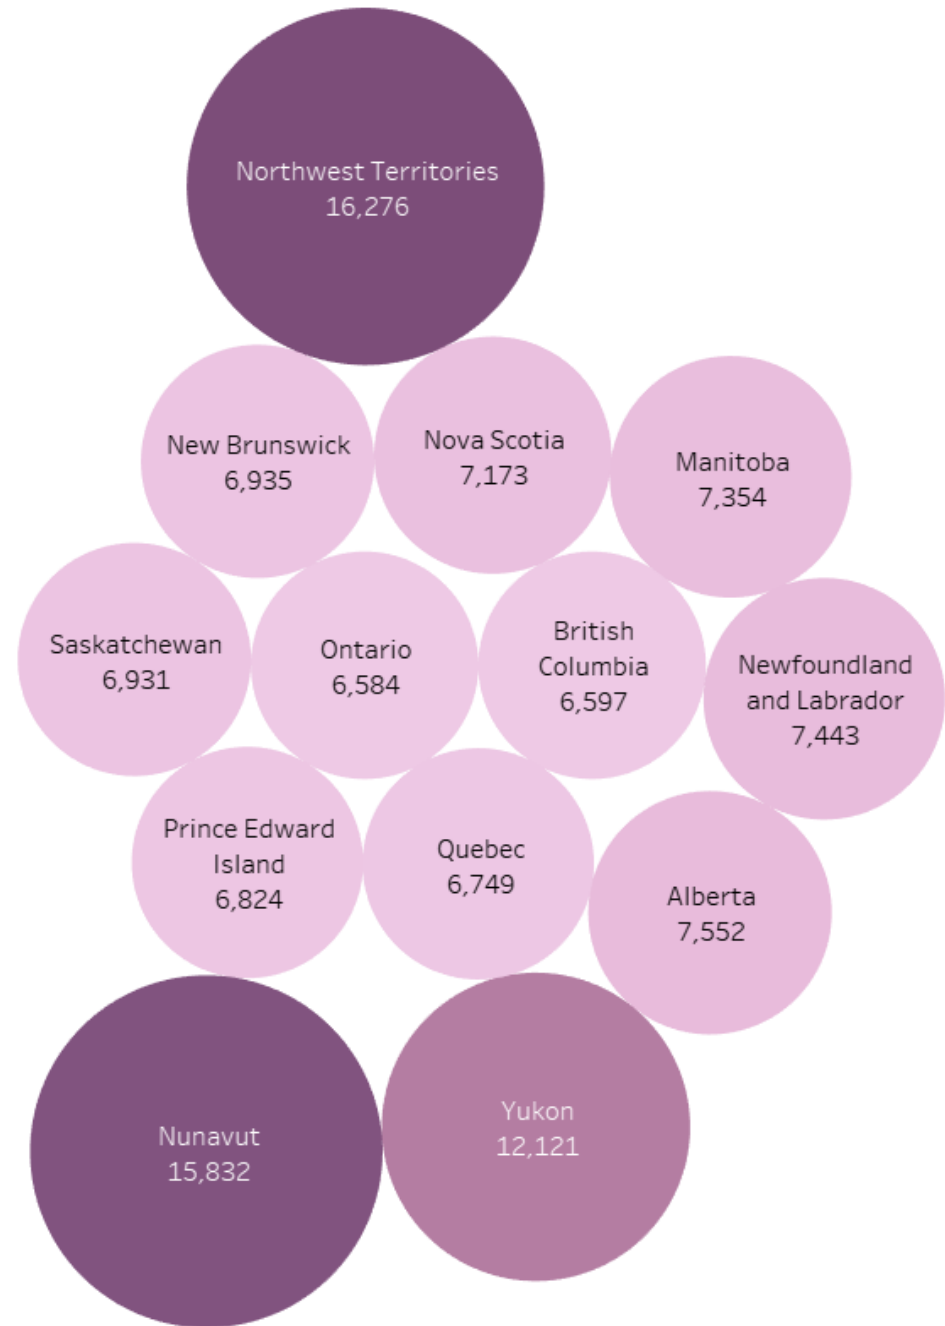

1. Ontario
2. Quebec
3. Alberta

Healthcare Budget

These territories rank higher than the provinces in terms of healthcare budget per person:

1. Northwest
2. Nunavut
3. Yukon

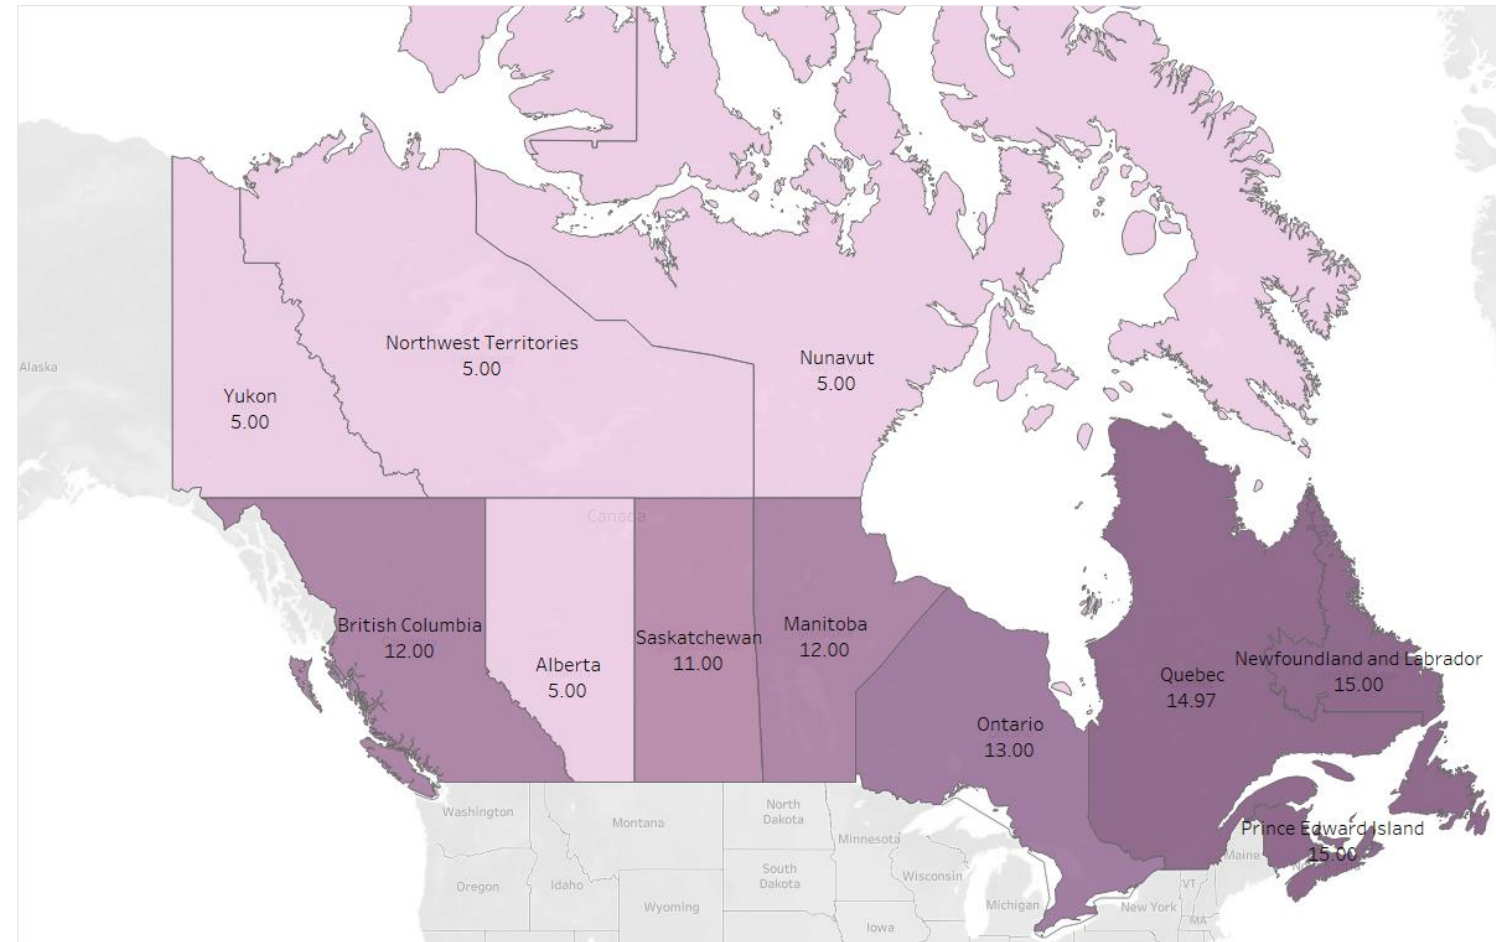

Tax

As seen on the geomap:

Alberta is the province with the lowest tax percentage

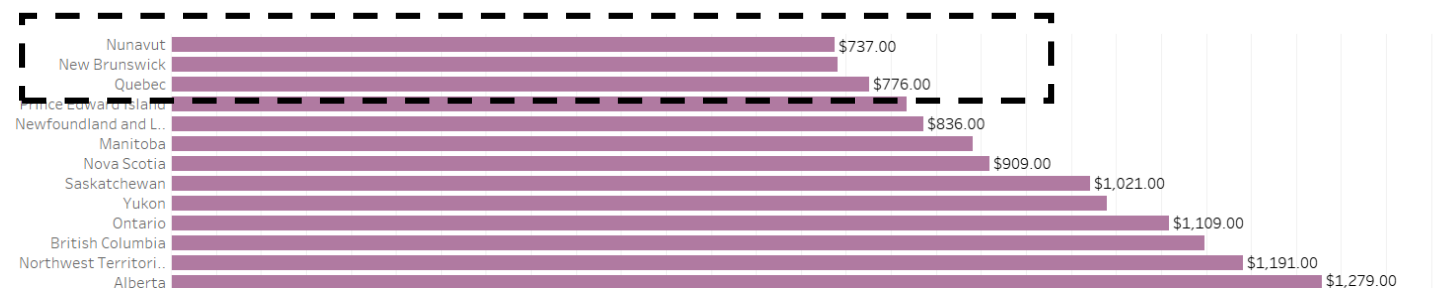

The rest with 5% are territories.

Cost of Living (Rent)

The following territories/provinces have the pay
the lowest average rent:

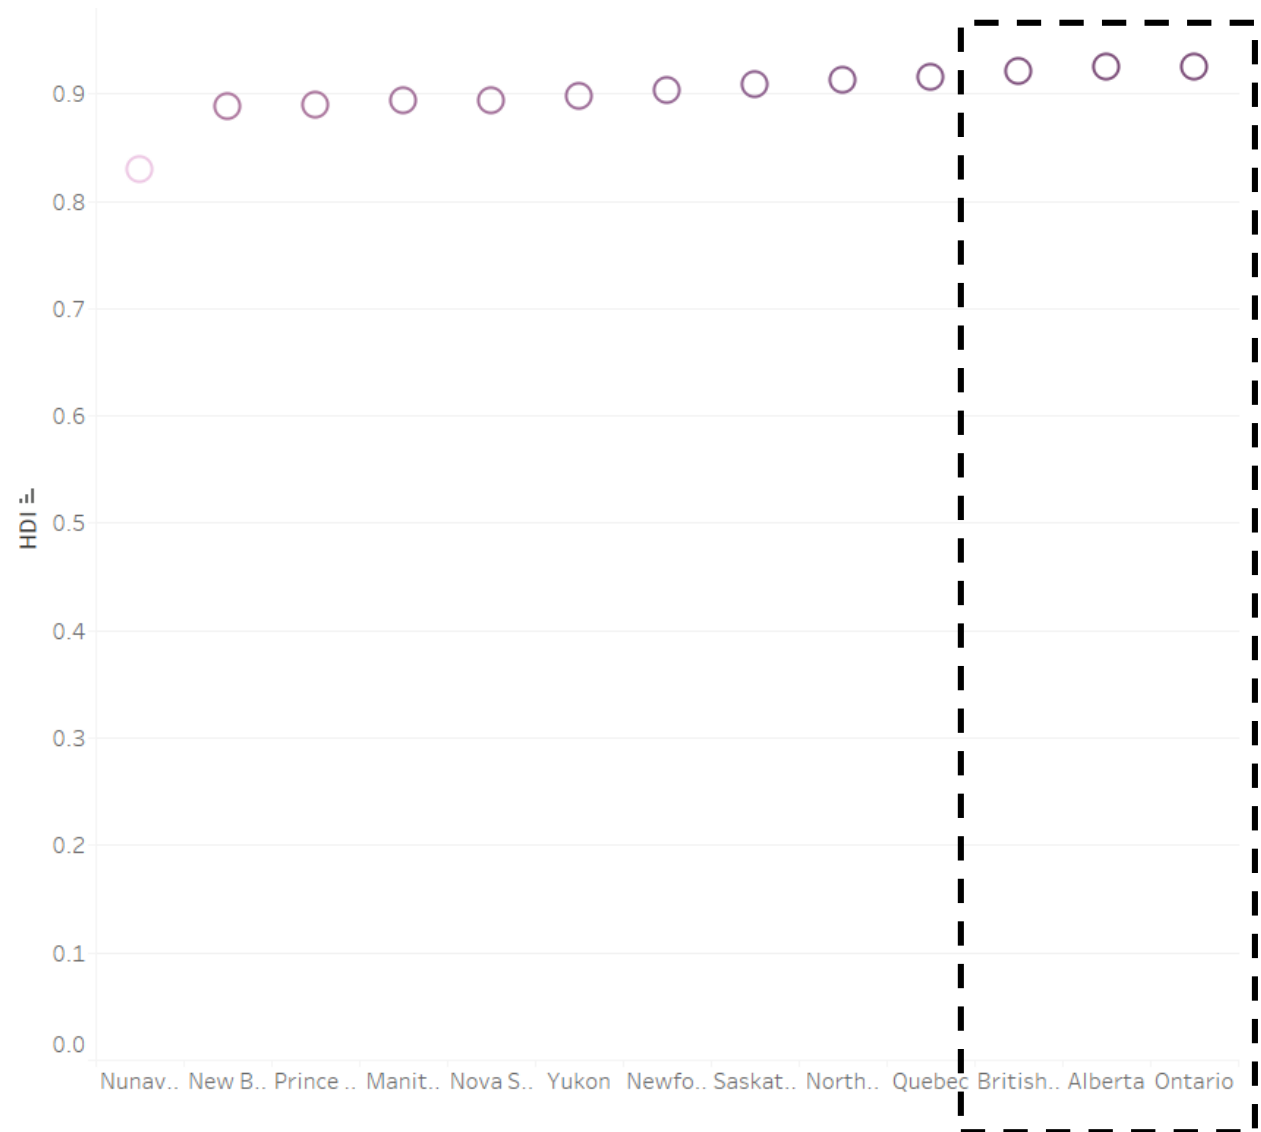

- 1. Nunavut
- 2. New Brunswick
- 3. Quebec

HDI

From the Human Development Index which comprises of factors such as life expectancy, literacy and overall standard of living we can see that the territory ranks lower than province. The top to consider includes:

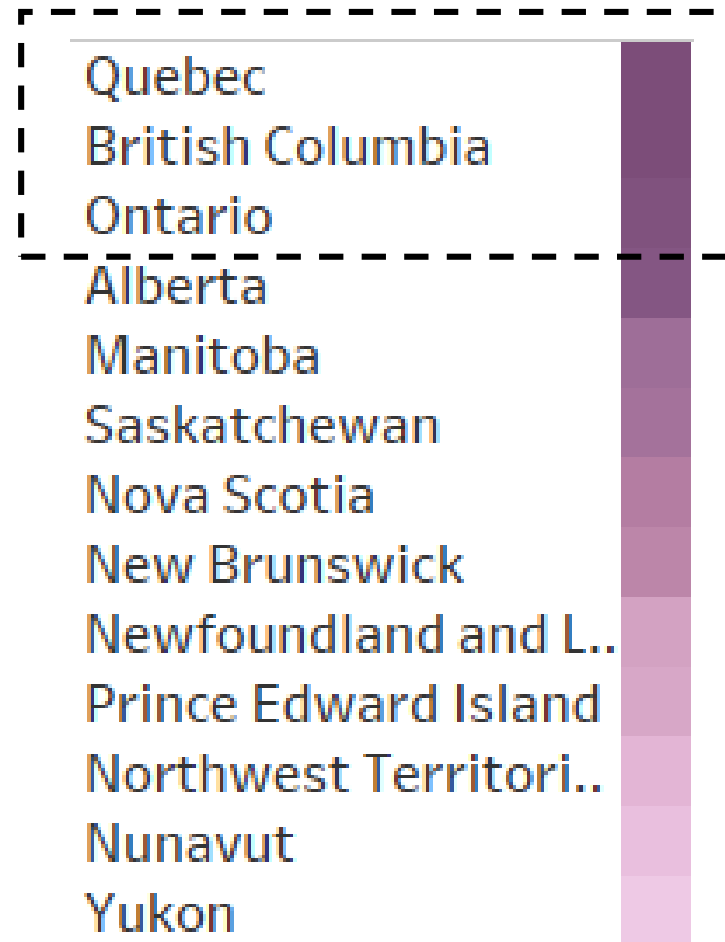

1. Ontario
2. Alberta
3. British Columbia

Conclusion

In summary here are the top three recommended provinces to consider for the new headquarters:

1. Quebec
2. British Columbia
3. Ontario

Data Sources

1. Statistic Canada
2. Wikipedia
3. CBC news
4. Global news